Lerman Senter's day-to-day counseling on operational matters includes many aspects of a broadcast station's or network's business and operations, and the development of business structures appropriate for our clients' objectives. We also prepare talent, programming, and contest/event agreements, in addition to sports rights and syndication agreements. Our attorneys review advertising copy and promotional materials for state and federal compliance. We regularly counsel our broadcast clients on labor and employment matters, and the preparation of personal service agreements. Additionally, we present compliance seminars for group owners and broadcast station managers and prepare practical business and regulatory compliance manuals, which are used by station management and personnel for reference.
